Re.: Regarding Italcementi’s operations in occupied Western Sahara

Dear Mr. Pesenti,

Western Sahara Resource Watch (WSRW) is privileged to write to you. WSRW’s purpose is to preserve the natural resources in occupied Western Sahara for the usage of its people, the Saharawis.

WSRW is currently writing a report about the problematic aspects of energy infrastructure projects in Western Sahara, and would appreciate a comment from you. Please note that in order to include clarifications from Italcementi, we would need your response at latest on 24 October.

Western Sahara is known as Africa’s last colony. For more than 40 years, the people of the territory have been noted by the United Nations as having the right to self-determination. When Spain abandoned Western Sahara in November 1975, the Moroccan army invaded and occupied Western Sahara claiming that territory despite the International Court of Justice had neglected any claim a few months before. The United Nations Mission for the Referendum in Western Sahara (MINURSO) was established and has been present in the territory for more than 20 years, to ensure that Saharawi people will exercise their right to self-determination.

The facts of Morocco’s occupation of Western Sahara are well known. The occupation fails to meet basic requirements of the Fourth Geneva Convention, the International Covenant on Civil and Political Rights and the International Covenant on Economic, Social and Cultural Rights, treaties that almost all countries, including Morocco, have ratified and supported. Morocco’s occupation of Western Sahara has been declared illegal under the United Nations Charter, the law of self-determination for colonized (non-self-governing) peoples and the international criminal law.

From what we understand, the Moroccan cement company Ciments du Maroc (CIMAR) is a fully owned subsidiary of Italcementi. Its production plant is located near the city of El Aaiún, under Moroccan occupation. All references on the website of Italcementi gives the impression that the city of El Aaiún and your plant is located in Morocco:

http://www.italcementigroup.com/ENG/Italcementi+Group/A+global+presence/Morocco/

The site of CIMAR gives the same impression.

We have three general concerns regarding Italcementi’s operations in the part of Western Sahara currently under Moroccan occupation.

First, the plant’s construction and operation seems not to have been consented to by the Saharawi people. It is an accepted principle of international law that development in a territory such as Western Sahara – occupied militarily and non-self-governing – cannot be done unless there has been consent of the legitimate inhabitants of the territory.

Second, building infrastructure in Western Sahara entrenches the occupation. Such activity gives the appearance of normality and legitimacy to a colonization that is in itself manifestly illegal. We expect that cement - potentially from your company – is used for Moroccan infrastructure, housing programmes, administration, military etc. It is pertinent to highlight that, in general, by supporting or assisting Morocco in its continuing occupation could be possible of legal persecution. The mere reference to Western Sahara as “in south Morocco”, underlines how a company’s presence can take part in the legitimisation of Morocco’s baseless demands to that land.

Third, the Saharawi people in exile at refugee camps sees no benefit of the cement factory in Western Sahara.

All things considered, we would be grateful for an answer to the following questions:

1. How has Italcementi assured itself of the consent of the Saharawi people, through their internationally recognized representative body, the Polisario Front, for the operation of the cement factory, and construction of related energy infrastructure in Western Sahara?
2. How does Italcementi evaluate the construction of infrastructure on occupied land in view of its position on corporate responsibility?

In addition, it is worth noting that the General Court of the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) on 10 December 2015 partially annulled the EU-Morocco agricultural agreement in so far as it applied to Western Sahara. The Court stated that Western Sahara “is not included in the recognised international frontiers of [Morocco]”, and “that the Kingdom of Morocco does not have any mandate granted by the UN or by another international body for the administration of [Western Sahara]” (points 232-233, Case T-512/12). As such, the CJEU echoes the 4 July 2014 Decision of Spain's High Court, the Audiencia Nacional which confirms that Spain, not Morocco, is the administering power over Western Sahara, and that the "territory cannot be considered Moroccan"(Case-Law Registry N° AAN 256/2014). Earlier this month, the General Advocate of the CJEU stated in his Legal Opinion that Western Sahara is not part of Morocco, and that no EU agreement with Morocco could apply to the territory (Conclusions de M. Wathelet, C-104/16).

Following these developments, we would welcome your reply to this additional question:

3. In light of the geographical descriptions and maps on your company’s website, how does Italcementi assess the views of the CJEU, that Western Sahara is not part of Morocco?

Lastly, we would appreciate clarifications to the following two questions.

4. Are there any policies in place for which kind of users in Western Sahara are allowed to purchase – or not purchase – products made by your company?
5. Which is the exact location of the quarries that supplies the cement factory with raw materials?

We would be grateful for your response prior to the date indicated above. A reference to your response will be made in the mentioned report.
We welcome the opportunity to provide you with any additional information that you may require to study this matter more closely. We thank you for your consideration of our letter and look forward to your reply.

A CC of this letter has been sent to Heidelberg Cement and Italgen.

Sincerely,

Anna Lucia Angelillo
